1.	DD/P&M	7 MAY 1981			Procedures implementing Section 2-206 of Executive Order 12036 empower the Director of Security and the Deputy Director of Security to authorize physical surveillances in the United States under certain circumstances. No other OS official may authorize a physical surveillance. The attached suggests a procedure whereby this authority could be delegated in advance for emergency situations. I do not believe that it is necessary to delegate this authority because the approval of the Director of Security or Deputy Director of Security to initiate a physical security surveillance may be oral when necessary (see section with black clip highlighted in yellow). I cannot conceive of a situation in which neither the Director of Security, the Deputy Director of Security nor anyone serving in their positions in an acting capacity (who also have the authority in question) would be unavailable to approve a surveillance.
